

D211 POST: NORTH CAMPUS STUDENTS GIVE BACK TO THE COMMUNITY

Students from District 211's North Campus filled food packets at Feed My Starving Children in Schaumburg as part of a program called The Circle of Courage. The students filled enough packets to feed 72 children for a year.

Jessica Quinterro, a social worker with North Campus, said the program has four key components, Belonging, Mastery, Independence, and Generosity, which help students build a better sense of self-worth. Volunteering at Feed My Starving Children focused on the fourth component.

"We try to help the students realize the world is so much larger," she said. "The volunteer work helps them realize this while helping them give back to their community."

Quinterro said once the students saw who they were helping, they were very eager to help.

"They kept saying, 'Come on. We need to move faster,'" she said.

According to Quinterro, North Campus takes students to Feed My Starving Children to volunteer approximately once per month. She said they typically try to choose different students for each trip, however, some students have had the opportunity to volunteer multiple times.

BOARD APPROVES FACILITY NAME CHANGE TO DISTRICT 211 NORTH CAMPUS

The District 211 Board of Education approved to change the name of a District 211 facility formerly known as District 211 Academy-North.

At its June 16, 2016 meeting the Board of Education approved to name the facility District 211 North Campus. This title allows programs occupying the building (District 211 Alternative Learning Academy and District 211 Academy-North) to cultivate their own identity. Parents, students, community members, and staff members will benefit from each program at the site maintaining distinct individual names.

The name change comes after budget cuts forced the North Cook Regional Office of Education's North Cook Young Adult Academy (NCYAA), a Regional Safe School program for general education students who have exhibited some instance of expellable misconduct, to move out of the facility effective at the end of the 2015-2016 school year. As a result, District 211 created its own program. This new District program, District 211 Alternative Learning Academy, will begin operation in August and enrollment will fluctuate between 25 and 30 students at any given time during the school year.
